CITY OFFICIALS AT YOUNGSTOWN UNDER FIRE

Governor Suspends Mayor for 30 Days; Police Chief to Have Hearing August 23

COLUMBUS, July 27.—Governor Donahy today suspended William G. Reese as mayor of Youngstown for 30 days. Robert Backus, president of the city council of Youngstown, was notified by the governor to act as mayor during the 30 day suspension of Mayor Reese, who is accused of nonfeasance, gross and wilful neglect of duty and failure to enforce the laws relating to intoxicating liquors. Similar charges have been lodged against Chief of Police James Watkins, Youngstown, who will be given a hearing before Governor Donahy, August 23.

Charges against Mayor Reese were filed by the governor himself. They are based upon complaints of the state prohibition department, law enforcement officers and numerous Youngstown citizens, including a Rev. Dr. Gibson.

Hearing for Mayor Reese set August 23 for a public hearing relative to Mayor Reese's suspension, if the mayor desires to present a defense.

Governor Donahy charged that during Mayor Reese's "entire term, numerous houses of prostitution, gambling houses and gambling devices have operated without any effort on the part of the mayor and his police department to enforce the laws relating thereto."

That "intoxicating liquors have been openly sold in dozens of places with the knowledge of the mayor or he should have had the knowledge in the proper exercise of his duties as mayor; that the mayor has, knowingly, wilfully and intentionally, permitted other laws of the state to be violated without any effort on his part to prosecute, or bring to justice, the violators."

Similar complaints have been made by Governor Donahy against Chief of Police Watkins, it was announced.

Police officers have visited places where such laws were being violated and failed, and neglected, to arrest the violators," said the governor.

Succeeds Oles. Mayor Reese, who succeeded former Mayor George Oles, after he resigned some months ago, is the second mayor suspended by Governor Donahy. The first suspension was that of former Mayor Herbert H. Vogt, Massillon, the state supreme court upholding the governor's suspension of Vogt.

Governor Donahy, not long ago gave Mayors Grall, Lorain, Fair, New Philadelphia, and McIntyre, Santoy, Perry county, 30 days in which to "clean up" alleged wet, vice and gambling conditions in their respective municipalities or be removed from office. The governor gave Mayor Koehler, Hamilton, a week in which to "clean up" similar conditions, exonerated Mayor Crow, Niles, of similar charges, and has warned numerous other mayors and sheriffs.

PRINCIPALS IN PARK FIGHT ON TRIAL

Albert and Clarence Jenkins were placed on trial in police court this morning on a disorderly conduct charge arising out of the assault upon Clint Worthington and special officer Ralph Hall, on Wednesday night. When arraigned they pleaded not guilty and employed an attorney to defend them. The trouble took place when Worthington took hold of him to escort him out of the dance hall instead of going to the gate. Officer Hall took hold of him to escort him out when he jerked away and struck the officer in the face, discolored his eye. Clarence Jenkins took a hand in the game, but later desisted, and Hall got a struggle hold on Clarence and took him to an auto to bring him over to the police station. Then a gang of eight or nine assaulted both Worthington and Hall and took the prisoner away. The case was still on trial this afternoon.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 27.—Until the day comes when the nations of the world will agree not to employ armed forces, the United States must place its chief reliance in a very first rank navy. President Harding told the Seattle Press club here today in his first address after returning from Alaska.

The president made this speech after a morning spent in reviewing the splendid Pacific fleet drawn up in battle array for the presidential homecoming. From the fleet review came the newspapersmen of the northwest and to them he uttered the hope that congress will ever see the necessity of keeping the American navy up to the treaty strength which he reminded his hearers was that of a first rate naval power.

To Keep Promises. "Let us hope our congress with the cordial sanction of the American people will continue that first rank," the president said. "I believe our obligation to the world means the most exacting restriction of our maintenance within the maximum limitation fixed by the arms conference and I believe our clear duty to ourselves is to maintain the equality provided in that maximum until the baptism of international conscience has brought about complete abolishment."

Any failure to keep the United States navy in the first rank cannot be charged to foreign influence, the president said, but is directly chargeable against us.

The president's address to the press club was brief and devoted mostly to his declarations on the naval review but he also talked "shop" a bit.

Text of Speech. The complete text follows: "When our transport brought us to your great harbor this morning we passed the Pacific fleet to give review. Ours was an impressive view and a very reassuring one. Within the memory of men who are still in active service, our navy, once defiant of any power on the sea, has become the first in all the world. Moreover, it is covenanted in international honor that our navy shall retain that first rank and any failure at retention must be charged to ourselves because the world has deliberately acknowledged the righteousness of our first rank position."

"Perhaps the day may come, I would speed it all I could, when nations will employ no armed forces. Until such a day comes, we shall find assurance in a navy of the first rank. We were building two years ago at a rate that would have placed our armed sea power in excess of any other power but in conviction that armament cost and competition was leading to menacing national burdens we invited an international conference to fix limitations."

"We asked equality with the first rank for ourselves and we were accorded it. Let us hope our congress with the cordial sanction of the American people will continue that first rank. I believe our obligation to the world means that most exacting restriction of our maintenance within the maximum limitation fixed by the conference and I believe our clear duty to ourselves is to maintain the equality provided in that maximum until a new baptism of international conscience prescribes joint action toward reduction or complete abolishment. We owe it to ourselves to understand that the navy is rather more than a mere instrument of war. It is the right arm to the department of state, seeing to the enforcement of the righteous pronouncements. It guards the security of American citizens wherever they are the world over. One could not fully reverence his flag if he did not feel that its untouchable means security for Americans wherever they seek its proper protection."

Flag On Many Seas. "It has our colors afloat today almost everywhere on the seven seas—at Smyrna to offer proper restraint and to bring in the waters to make for security; in all waters to urge tranquility and maintain righteousness and with it all waters to urge tranquility and maintain righteousness and with it all to emphasize our confidence in ourselves and our sense of obligation at home."

"You will have observed that I have assigned myself to report on the naval review rather than talk shop on this happy occasion. Assuming that one most readily takes upon the subject which he most loves, I should have ventured some observations on the fourth estate. Ignoring the little distinction which attended, I find a pride in nearly forty years of participation in newspaper making and a reflective survey purveys me that the greatest satisfaction has come of a policy designed always to boost

TRUSTIES TAKE FRENCH LEAVE AT EATON

Three From Reformatory Tie Horses to Fence and Escape Towards Cleveland

The first trustees to make their get-away from the State farm at North Eaton, walked away Tuesday afternoon according to Superintendent Brown who reported the case here yesterday.

The young men John Hoover, John Hargett and Francis Hunt, all about 22 years of age came to the farm some time ago from the Mansfield reformatory and have been working on the farm since then. They were working in a field with a team, and they hitched the horses to a fence, and were last seen in Columbia headed towards Cleveland. The guard was temporarily absent at the time, but their escape was discovered soon after they were gone. Superintendent Brown did not know where the young men were from or what crime they had been sentenced for.

Works From Small Closed Auto; Loot in Jewelry and Money Totals $31,500

CHICAGO, July 27.—A youthful bandit, working alone in a small closed automobile early today held up and robbed Mr. and Mrs. Julian Kline of Chicago, Mrs. Louis Bigelow of New York, a sister of Mrs. Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Levy of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Adams, obtaining a large amount of cash and jewels, bringing the total value of his loot to about $31,500.

A short time previous to the holdup of the Adams-Kline party, police learned, the same bandit held up four members of the "dancing girl" theatrical production and doctored with loot valued at more than $2,000.

Adams was struck by the bandit when he accidentally sounded the horn of his automobile after having been held up. He was sent to a hospital minus several teeth and suffering from a probable fracture of the jaw.

Members of the "dancing girl" party were: Louis Jordan, music publisher, associated with the company; Miss Winnie Lifer, member of the chorus; Jack Pearl, a comedian, and Mrs. W. E. Ballinger, a doctor's wife and friend of the show people.

RESPECTING SUPT. SEALE

A few days ago The Chronicle-Telegram published a news article founded upon strictures made by the Carlisle School Board on Supt. E. C. Seale of the County Schools. In the resolution passed by the School Board, criticism was made. This criticism by the Carlisle School Board was founded on the fact that Mr. Seale was receiving pay for services during vacation in addition to his regular salary, a custom almost universal among men whose strength will permit and ability warrant. Further statements in the article were to the effect that some of Mr. Seale's bills were held up and question was raised as to their validity.

I have made an investigation of everything that appeared in this news article. I have talked with some members of the Carlisle School Board. I have examined the matter of the bills to which reference was made and on behalf of justice and of Supt. Seale, I want to say that there was absolutely nothing connected with any part of any transaction either which the Carlisle School Board criticised or any bill that was submitted for payment, and which as a matter of fact was not held up, but promptly paid, that reflected upon Mr. Seale in any way.

Supt. Seale is a man of unusual ability, pronounced opinions and determination. He has done a tremendous amount of work in Lorain County. A great deal of the consolidation of schools and the erection of modern school buildings can be traced directly to his untiring efforts. There are those who do not agree with his program. There are those who naturally feel that he may have oversold his ideas to townships. But we believe that in spite of that, that no man however wise or diplomatic could have produced more in the same space of time with less friction and fewer opponents.

There is nothing, however, that we have observed after listening to any criticisms that reflects in any manner upon Mr. Seale personally or upon his administration. I believe that this statement should be made because I feel that the items published received prominence out of proportion to their news value, and in certain particulars left implications that were entirely out of harmony with the facts as I believe them to be.

HARDING GIVEN BIG OVATION ON RETURN

Back on Native Soil After Tour of Alaska and Visit to Canada; Sees Slow but Sure Development of Alaska

SEATTLE, Wash., July 27.—President Harding came back "home" today to the accompaniment of deafening welcome from the Pacific fleet, assembled for review in the harbor.

The Henderson came out of the gray mists overhanging Elliott Bay to find the battle squadron of the Pacific fleet drawn up smartly in line for presidential inspection. The roar of gigantic guns from Admiral Hilary P. Jones' flagship, the armored cruiser Seattle, was the welcome note of the president's homecoming, after three weeks absence from the United States.

The first gun from the Seattle in the presidential salute of 21 guns was a signal for a succession of ear-splitting detonations from other assembled battleships as the Henderson moved slowly along the line of ships. One after another guns from the battleships California, New Mexico, Arizona, Maryland, Tennessee, Idaho, Mississippi, Nevada, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Texas and New York boomed out, welcoming the president home and shattering the morning stillness of the bay. The Henderson, her marines and sailors lining the deck rails, steamed quietly. The president's craft returned no salute.

Forty destroyers, slim grey-hounds of the ocean and a host of auxiliary craft made up the balance of the fleet review. It was an impressive display, made so by the fact that it was the president's homecoming after his journey to Alaska and his visit to Canadian soil at Vancouver Thursday.

The Canadian visit made a deep and lasting impression upon the president. Vancouver and British Columbia accorded the president and his party a welcome that seldom if ever accorded any visitors however distinguished and the president went aboard the Henderson last night a tired and happy man. He went aboard convinced, too, that the bonds of kinship that have existed for more than a hundred years between Canadians and Americans have been strengthened by his brief visit in the western Canadian metropolis and that however vexing may be the questions which arise in the future between the two nations, the bonds of kinship will "neighborly" adjustment from both sides of the border. The president spent a busy day in Seattle. After landing at 10 o'clock he started a two hour motor ride around the city, through the business and residential sections, also parks where thousands of school children were drawn up to welcome him.

Speaks On Alaska. President Harding will be the guest of the Seattle press club for lunch after which he will rest and then motor to the stadium, arriving at 4 p. m. to make his address on Alaska.

In this address, he will, as outlined in previous interviews and despatches, report nothing wrong with Alaska but that development must necessarily be a slow procedure. He will stress the need of royal road to prosperity. The president, it is understood will emphasize the richness of Alaskan resources and pledges his administration to a policy of fruitful conservation.

The president takes the road again after his Alaskan speech, leaving Seattle at 7 o'clock on the Great Northern for El Portal, Cal., where early Sunday morning he visits Yosemite Park for a two day visit, then continuing Monday night down the coast.

$2.00 Conscience Money Returned To Local Store

Manager Frank Burson, of the Elyria Dry Goods Co., was surprised yesterday when he received a postoffice order for two dollars which had been mailed to him by a woman signing her name as Mrs. C. Davis. Her conscience evidently prompted her to send the money for the states "The Lord has taught me that I owe you, as I was in there one year, several years ago and picked up a pair of gloves and did not pay for them." Manager Burson is not telling where the lady lives as it is far away from here.

CLEVELAND, July 27.—Nine men and three women sworn to "well and truly try and true deliverance make" of the issues in the case of the state's Ohio against John Leonard Whitfield, indicted for murder in connection with the killing of Patrolman Dennis Griffin last May, were empaneled in the old court-house on the public square today.

Motions Overruled. The last juror was accepted with the defense having exhausted all sixteen of the peremptory challenges allotted by law to a man on trial for his life. The state failed to exercise its last right to challenge, excusing but three prospective jurors by this means.

Motions for a change of venue and for a visit by the jury to the scene of the crime were quickly overruled by the judge. Stanton, in his opening statement, demanded the death penalty, saying the Ohio would be satisfied with nothing less.

Blaz Buonpane, of defense counsel, was extremely brief, merely saying "the defendant has entered a plea of not guilty. He stands on that plea."

Widow Called. Mrs. Dennis Griffin, widow of the slain officer, was then called to the stand and the life of Whitfield was formally in the balance.

The woman was dressed in mourning garb and her appearance on the stand excited comment from the courtroom crowded with the curious. Judge Phillips directed the bailiffs to maintain the strictest order.

VETERAN TREE IN CITY PARK UNDER KNIFE

One of Martin Dary's tree experts has been called in to doctor a sick tree in the city park. One of the large elms at the corner of Middle avenue and Second street has been showing symptoms of distress and has started a slow process of giving up the ghost.

The county commissioner, to the state and what section of the park became alarmed at the condition of their ward, and decided to call in a tree doctor to prescribe for its ailment.

He found the patient in a serious condition, and resorted to the knife. All the dead limbs were cut off and the wounds properly bound up. The patient's feet needed attention, so a trench was cut around the tree, and instead of using mustard, a liberal amount of bone meal and other tree foot accelerators was placed there. Then the ground around the roots was thoroughly massaged with a shovel. It is now up to nature to do the rest, and the whole city will keep an eye on the patient and hope for its ultimate recovery. The tree is one of the original forest trees that was a mere sapling when the first white men came here which fact caused the commissioners to try and save it for future generations.

BAILING HAY PREVENTS LOSS IN SHIPPING

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

THERE is no market for loose hay in a large commercial way, and where loose hay is produced generally in a community, top prices are never received for the growers.

Baled hay always sells for several dollars more per ton than loose hay," states J. K. Rodgers of Marshall county, Kansas. "Tests have proved that from 20 to 40 per cent of the hay crop food value is saved by baling."

"It is well to note that storing, hauling and shipping are all facilitated by baling. The hay baler permits the hay grower to save all his crop and receive top prices for the surplus."

Baling should be done to conform with the demands of the best markets for each locality, and care be taken to secure bale ties of tough soft wire, with great tensile strength and with strong heads. Broken bales in a shipment cause loss and can be prevented by good baling with strong ties.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

The News of Dr. Brathwaite the Telegram Brought.

"THIS is the telegraph office," cried, as from behind me my small son observed me impersonally. "Mama dance so pretty van she talk by Granzie over telephone." I wanted to see Katherine catching him up in her arms.

"Yes, yes! You have a telegram for us? Repeat it, please."

A buzzing sound was the only answer, and I knew that in some way the connection had been broken. I schooled my voice to the most accidental courtesy I could manage.

"Mother, the connection has been broken."

"I know that as well as you do," she snapped tartly. "Ring them back, right away!"

"I would get only the busy signal," I said patiently. "For she undoubtedly is trying to ring us. So if you will please hang up the receiver, I will do the same thing, and central will have a chance to ring us back."

"If you hadn't rushed to the telephone, there wouldn't have been any trouble," she retorted.

"I'm sorry," I returned with pretended meekness, "and I'll keep away from it the next time. It's from Dr. Brathwaite, of course, and I must have the message so that I can transmit it directly to Alfred Durkee. Will you make a copy of it for me, please?"

"I chucked to myself wickedly as I threw this little bombshell. For well I knew that my mother-in-law hates, above most things, the attempt to write when at a telephone. Her glasses invariably slide off her nose, she gets flustered at once, and her attempt at being an amanuensis generally ends in an acrimonious altercation with the person at the other end of the wire."

Mother Graham's Command. There was an astonished silence of at least ten seconds as she digested my little speech. Then she exploded: "Of all the impudence! I am astonished at you, Margaret, although I suppose it's about what I ought to expect. But with all I have on hand here to ask me to write out telegrams, I shall do nothing of the kind. I am going directly back to oversee the cleaning, and when that telephone rings again, see that you answer it."

The upstairs receiver banged on its hook, and as I softly hung up my own, I executed a little dance step of victory, but stopped, for as from behind me my small son observed me impersonally.

"Mama dance so pretty van she talk by Granzie over telephone."

I wanted to see Katherine catching him up in her arms.

"This child is loaded with dynamite," she said, laughing, but with worried little look. "Case a stick in either hand now—one for me and one for you—and he is likely to throw either at any time."

"We can only wait and pray, however, and keep the dangerous combination as far apart as possible, hoping that the memory which your offspring evidently has inherited from you, will aid a cure."

"I'll occupy his mind for a few minutes now, if I can, while you get that telegram."

"Let Me See That!"

Junior regarded her critically, his head on one side like an inquisitive robin's.

"You talk awful foony, Aunt Tatt," he observed, and I noted again the accuracy of Katherine's ridiculous idioms which he was fast picking up. "Var you mean?"

"I'll tell you over here," she returned, carrying him to a big chair near the window, while I returned to the telephone, now ringing again impatiently.

"We were out off," the crisp voice explained when I had answered it. "Are you ready to receive the telegram?"

"Yes," and with the pencil and pad of paper which I always keep on the telephone table, I transcribed the message.

"Mrs. Margaret Graham, Sag Harbor, L. I."

"Harriet and I leave here two days. Sorry not before. Please arrange for operation second day after arrival New York. Must have rest one day. do not wish delay longer. From data case should have immediate attention. Prefer hospital, N. Y. If family agrees, advise me. I will make arrangements by wire. (Signed) Edwin Brathwaite."

"Please repeat the message," the girl asked.

"Certainly," and I read the telegram back to the operator. When I hung up the receiver, Mother Graham was at my elbow.

"Two days," she calculated thoughtfully when she had read it. "And it takes a full day on the train. That gives me just the time I thought. But we'll never get done at the rate we're going, for that new girl you hired spends most of her time watching out of the window as though she expected something to happen."

She took refuge in the swamp near Mosinee and evaded capture until hunger forced her out to seek food. She says "something made her" beat her step-mother.

HOW TO MAKE A SHOCK

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

THERE is much unnecessary loss of good spring wheat through careless shocking. Why grow good wheat and then allow it to spoil?

"First of all," says Dr. Andrew Boss, agronomist, Minnesota Agricultural college, set two bundles opposite each other, placing them firmly on the ground and bracing the two against each other very firmly. The next step is to brace two or more bundles against the first two, on the opposite sides. Then fill the empty spaces, until shock is solid. Then "break" the cap sheet or sheaves carefully over the top so that they will shed rain and not blow off. Careful capping is half the battle.

"A well-made shock should be able to hold a man."

Scotchmen Tour Nation For 'Legger'

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Seven lanky Scotchmen investigating prohibition in the United States, left Washington today for Chicago, St. Louis and points west in search of a bootlegger.

They came here after interviewing dry leaders in New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore and found out as much as they could about prohibition in the national capital, in conversation with officials of the anti-alcohol league. But in all their American travels they have been unable to get the proof of an actual dealer in rum.

The information that they gather in this country will be used in connection with the local option election in Scotland this fall.

The party includes Dr. William Swan, the Rev. Joseph Johnston, the Rev. J. Malcolm Munro, Robert Gibson, W. P. Livingston, Roderick Manson and A. N. Burnale.

Thousands of men have learned that only the most internal medicine can move the cause. Bad circulation causes the lower bowel and a weak internal medicine. Painful Rheumatic Swellings Disappear

Discoverer Tells Druggists Not To Take a Cent of Anyone's Money Unless Alientha Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pains and Twinges.

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work. He finally decided after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body. With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system. He freely gave his discovery, which he called ALLENRHU, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense ALLENRHU with the understanding that in the first bottle bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. BOAT BURNS UP IN DISMANTLING STILL CINCINNATI, July 27.—While dismantling a still on a shanty boat at Delhi, on the Ohio river, last night, three policemen narrowly escaped death when an acetylene torch under the "cook-r" exploded and burned the craft to the water's edge, after which it sank to the bottom of the river. The officers, after obtaining court evidence, stood on the bank and watched the destruction of the 30-foot boat. The owner was not present when the officers arrived.

STATE TO OPEN COAL BIDS ON AUGUST 2

COLUMBUS, July 27.—Invitations to bid for the contract of supplying coal to state institutions during the next year were mailed today to 90 Ohio coal companies, state purchasing agent Brennan announced. The bids are to be opened August 2. Mr. Brennan expects to award contracts immediately, to take advantage of summer coal prices. Only Ohio mined coal will be acceptable to the state, he said.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Popovers.—Sift a generous pint of flour several times with a teaspoonful of baking powder, add one-half teaspoonful of salt, a pint of milk, and two eggs, beaten very light. Beat all for five minutes, then turn immediately into heated and greased gem or deep muffin pans, and bake at once in a hot oven.

Molasses Cookies.—One cup brown sugar, one cup shortening, one cup molasses, one egg, one tablespoon ginger, or one teaspoon cinnamon and one of ginger, one-half cup hot water or sour milk, one teaspoon soda, flour to roll out soft. Bake in moderate oven.
Sour Apple-Custard Pie.—Pare, quarter and core four medium sized apples, stew in a little water. When done rub through a sieve and stir in a tablespoon butter and a little putmeg or cinnamon, as preferred. Beat yolks of two eggs a little, add to apple mixture. Add three-fourths of a cup of sugar, beat well and put in uncooked pie crust. Bake. Make meringue of whites of eggs and confectioner's sugar and put on top of pie and brown.

The Children's Room.—A well-known physician has said that white walls in a nursery are bad for the children's nerves. They reflect too much light. Any soft tint is preferable, but blue is probably best, and instead of paper it is much better to have the walls painted so that they may be washed. It is better to have a little, if any, decorations in a child's room. A good plan is to cover the floor with linoleum as a safeguard against drafts before putting down the rug.

When a Raincoat Leaks.—Raincoats have a way of letting the dampness through in certain places, but it is quite easy to set the matter right in the following manner: Secure a small lump of beeswax and spread the raincoat on a flat surface, wrong side upward. Now rub the material with the wax until the surface appears to have taken on a gray tint. When the area has been treated in this manner, hold a sheet of brown paper over the spot, and then press with a hot iron. This melts the beeswax and makes it pass into every fiber of the cloth. The raincoat will then be weatherproof.

Stocking Hint.—When mending stockings, darn on both sides lightly, and your darning will last double the length of time.

Picnic Coffee.—To one quart of coffee, poured off the grounds, add one cup cream, two eggs, beaten thoroughly. Sweeten to taste. Chill well. Put in the thermos bottle. Make coffee at breakfast time and chill, then add the cream and eggs, using a wire beater, or Dover egg beater. Then return to refrigerator until wanted.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS.

Count Harry Kessler, one of the group of eminent foreigners chosen to lecture at the third annual session of the Institution of Politics, which opens at William College today, will be the spokesman for Germany. While practically unknown in America, he had had an unusual career in Germany, and is now an active leader of the Socialist Democratic party in the republic. He was the first Minister appointed to Poland after the war, retiring when Poland broke off diplomatic relations with Germany. On his return to Berlin he organized and conducted the tremendous "Nie Wieder Krieg" demonstrations in 1921 and 1922. He also has had close association with various Socialist organizations of France. He has been a publisher and is now editor of the Deutsche Nation, the principal monthly organ of his party.

A Fluffy, Crispy, Delicious Doughnut FREE Saturday

"Yes sir," Bill Damm says, "Every person who comes to our bakery Saturday is going to get a crispy, warm, delicious doughnut free. These doughnuts have that same delightful flavor like the ones your mother used to make when you were a kid. We are putting our new Display Doughnut Machine right in our window Saturday, where everyone may see just how these doughnuts are made."

The machine is sold by the Doughnut Machine Corporation of New York City and it is a wonder, too. Everything operates automatically, is absolutely sanitary, the operator never touches a single doughnut. It delivers eighty dozen, or 960 winsome, appetizing doughnuts an hour. You just can't resist their flavor. You are captivated by their taste.

This doughnut machine is being sold to the most progressive bakeries in the United States. The demand is increasing rapidly. First, because the public is so pleased with their products, and second, the baker himself is delighted with the ease and rapidity with which he can produce his doughnuts daily, and they are always fresh as they come sizzling out of the hot grease every few seconds.

DUNDEE BATTERS CRIQUI AND WINS 'FEATHER' CROWN

NEW YORK, July 27.—The Frenchman ran at the Marne but they were forward and last night at the Marne Dundee, a crowd of 100,000, left eye on the face swollen to the proportions of a generous pumpkin and torn by sagging along the wound, he maintained at Verdun, stepped fearfully into a pitiless beating as a man received in a championship fight. Johnny Dundee was awarded the term of a world champion of the world, but the real hero, the man they cheered and ultimately held in something approaching reverence was the loser, not the winner.

Seemingly every barber, boot-black, bus boy and bartender in town, a typical and extremely partial Dundee crowd, was there and it made its sentiment quite clear by booing the Frenchman for no reason at all as he entered the ring. But America was a land that laid its foundation upon the altar of courage and great champions, gains its instant clamorous approval.

Crown Champions Quickly. As the man left the ring, Dundee, debonair, jubilant and unmarked, was acclaimed with no greater sincerity than Cricqui, the vanquished, left eye closed and face swollen to the proportions of a generous pumpkin and torn by sagging along the wound he sustained in the war. In the Frenchman's gallant defense of his all-too recent title will go down in the records as one of the most inspiring fights witnessed in a modern ring.

Dundee, by a margin as wide as the rolling reaches of the Atlantic, he scored one knock down in the first round, two in the second and needed but a single punch to bring his man down with definite finality as the bell sounded in the fifteenth ending the fight. He made every step of the way an exhibition of front running at a pace so smart that Cricqui was disoriented at an early moment and the announcement that Dundee had become champion of the world after some 12 years of the most earnest and without, meritorious effort, was less than a formality. So also was the pressure on Cricqui, his face a bloody ruin and mute tragedy staring from his eyes, as "one of the greatest guys that ever held a title."

Even the most antagonistic crowd could grant no less.

Dundee, who has been within an inch of his life, the French entry who held the title less than two months after scoring a one punch knockout of Johnny Kilbane, never took a backward step though he tottered on the verge of oblivion from the moment that he was dropped with a left hook to the jaw in the opening round. That it is a matter of record that not a single round of the 15 was carried by Cricqui, it was he who advanced to do further battle. In the words of the immortal Menlo, his head was bloody but unbowed and the call for retreat had no part in the tactics of battle as understood by him. To see Cricqui in the ring last night was to come to more intimate understanding of why the French stopped the first German drive with a few guns and the will to win.

The seventh champion to lose his title within this momentous twelfth month, Cricqui was beaten as thoroughly as no man deserved to be. He was up against the canny Dundee, fighting at the very top of form and his efforts to land a solid punch on this leaping, eccentric target finally became ludicrous. As far as this writer is concerned, the Frenchman did not land a single blow in the entire 45 minutes of action.

This is a direct tribute to Dundee's genius. Calm, careful and relentlessly accurate, the man who has made weight for featherweights lightweights and welterweights was never as good as he was last night. Had Cricqui been able to fight 24 hours he wouldn't have hit Dundee with a tennis racket.

French Lament Defeat. PARIS, July 27.—There was deep gloom in French sporting circles today over the news that Johnny Dundee had defeated Eugene Cricqui of France, winning the world's featherweight championship, which the little French fighter had held only two months.

The cafes of Montmartre were filled with sporting fraternity awaiting the news of the fight.

Some of the French fight fans proved themselves poor sports by indignantly declaring that Dundee "must have won on a fluke."

The newspapers took a more sporting view of the battle.

"The best man won," was the verdict of the Petit Parisien.

"Cricqui, although defeated, has the sympathy and admiration of all France," said the Matin.

"Some day Cricqui will regain his lost laurels," said the Echo de Paris.

A REAL BATTLE

The Hamilton and McKinley Jr. played an exceptionally close and interesting game of indoor baseball on the Hamilton grounds last evening, the McKinleys winning 3 to 2. Both Robertson and Fritz picked well but McKinley managed to connect with the ball enough times to pull them safely through. It was an exciting game that was witnessed by a good sized crowd.

McKinley, 0 0 1 2 0 0 0 0—3 2 2
Hamilton, 0 0 1 0 1 0 0 0—2 1 2

Batteries: McKinley—Robertson and Burns; Hamilton—J. Fritz and Visinski.

Cy Williams smote two homers, bringing his total for the year up to 25 and the second of them enabled the Phillies to defeat the Cardinals, 5 to 4.

RED MENACE INVADERS BASEBALL, GIANTS THREATENED

The Red Menace constantly looming over Moscow has nothing on the Red menace which now hovers over the National League. Repeated warnings conveyed to the New York Giants by the pitching feats of the Cincinnati team have caused John McGraw to figure on drastic measures to protect the championship he has held two years and wants to retain a third year. In other words the Cincinnati Reds now threaten to ease out the Giants and win the pennant.

Pall Bearers Trim McKinleys In 12th; Hamilton Tuesday

The Pall Bearers, last year's playground champions, took the measure of the McKinley Seniors on the McKinley diamond last evening by a 15 to 14 score in one of the hardest fought games ever played in the league. It took twelve innings to pull the feat.

A home run by Brown gave the McKinleys a 3 run lead in the first but the Pall Bearers wound up the second stanza on the long end of a 5 to 4 count. McKinleys added 4 in the fourth, three in the seventh and one in the eighth in which frame the Pall Bearers annexed five tallies and evened up the count.

Pall Bearers Hard Hitters. Letting an easy pop fly fall save after two were down in the tenth gave the McKinleys two runs but the Pall Bearers after two were down obligingly again evened up the score. The Pall Bearers scored in the twelfth without an out.

That the Pall Bearers hit hard is indicated that Dangerfield, playing his usual stellar game, absorbing nine drives in left field, Harry Forbes getting two and missing a like number and the other outfielder also garnered a couple.

Forbes, Burke and Kaiser were the consistent hitters for the McKinleys while Conole and Powell with three each, Schrimp and McGowan with four each and old reliable Eddie Pomeroy had no less than five bingles, being the star swatfester of the fray.

The Pall Bearers will play the league leading Hamiltons on the Hamilton diamond on Tuesday evening and a battle royal is anticipated. The Pall Bearers will line up as follows:

The Star Line-Up
McGowan, c; Malik, p; Strinka and Gordan, 1b; Sexton, 2b; Schrimp, 3b; Gotro, 2b; Cornell and Conole, ss; Hancock and Tom Bruce, lf; Powell and Bill Rose, cf.

Tagging The Bases

This annual game between the married and single men was held at Chicago yesterday and as a result the Cubs beat the Giants by a score of 11 to 0.

After Reichle's double furnished the winning run over Walter Johnson and the Senators in the eighth inning of the first game, 7 to 6, St. Walter came back and beat the Red Sox in the second, 15 to 3.

After G. H. Ruth, the well known outfielder, had settled with a stiff neck, Harvey Hendrick, a recruit, replaced him and his double, scoring two in the fifth, enabled the Yankees to defeat the Athletics 4 to 3.

The Dodgers finished a bad second to the Reds, 9 to 2.

Tanner's homer off Barnes in the twelfth inning gave the Pirates and 8 to 7 verdict over the Braves.

GARFORD JRS. WIN.

The Garford and Gates Juniors played an interesting game at the Gates ground last night, the Garfords winning handily by an 8 to 1 score. After the second inning, Gates was unable to hit the ball safely and went down to defeat.

According to U. S. Geological Survey, the amount of electrical energy generated in Ohio by fuel in 1922, increased 10.9% over 1921, while the amount of coal
used increased only 9.8%.

Part of this increase in efficiency is due to the new equipment installed by The Ohio Public Service Co.
hence the increased earnings and the security of the dividends of the Preferred stock.

There is no guess work in the operation of an elec-

FRIDAY, JULY 27, 1923.

SENATOR JOHNSON'S OPENING SPEECH

Senator Hiram Johnson in his speech in New York City did the expected thing. He went away an opponent of an International Court, an opponent of the League of Nations, an opponent of every kind of union looking toward a solution of our international troubles, and he came back in the same frame of mind. It was expected that he would use the occasion of his return and the supposed additional information he had received to make a spectacular assault upon everything that looked like a get-together movement of the nations. He did it.

Among other things, he said: "The verdict of the polls in 1920 should have been sufficient to settle the question of the foreign relations of the United States for all times." In this statement Senator Johnson either shows lack of ability in the head or lack of truth in the heart. He knows that the tremendous majority for Mr. Harding was made up of people who held all shades of belief upon the question of a League of Nations. The only thing upon which they were united in that vote was in their opposition to Wilson and their refusal to endorse the specific language of the Covenant of the League of Nations.

Men of diametrically opposite views voted for Mr. Harding on the Republican ticket, in the firm belief, and they said so, that his election would aid in carrying out their particular program.

The next thought that Mr. Johnson brings out, we are perfectly willing to agree with. He said, "If it must be decided again, I insist it shall be honestly and fearlessly decided. Let's make the issue so plain that even some of our most distinguished statesmen cannot dodge it." This is right. The issue should be made plain. The arguments should be fully, carefully and honestly stated. When the decision has been made, the people should abide by that decision, and the ones who are elected to office should abide by it.

[There is this exception. If the question even then has not been settled right, it will not have been settled regardless of how clear the issue may be and regardless of the size of the majority which may have voted on the winning side.

Questions have a way of arising, regardless of majorities, until the questions have been decided in harmony, with eternal truth and progress. If as Senator Johnson contends, America has no mission other than that of splendid isolation in a great neighborhood of nations, if there are no obligations which come to her to participate in the necessary world affairs, if the same laws of ethics and morals which govern the relation of one man to another in our smallest community life should not apply between the larger groups known as nations in the world, if the unselfish spirit of aid which causes one man to go to another's rescue at his own personal loss should be crushed in the nation, then we had better destroy our Bibles and endeavor to eliminate from history and our civilization the heroic character that was crucified on the hills outside of Jerusalem and most of his utterances including the Sermon on the Mount.

We are sure that whether or no there may be a better solution of the world's serious difficulties than a League of Nations and an International Court, that at any rate the solution does not lie in our eyes being closed to others needs in a selfish, narrow attitude of denial of responsibility for what is going on in the world when we might effect the results for good.

Every individual is not only responsible for the good he does, but he is responsible for the evil that he might prevent by his effort. The same is true of nations and for Senator Hiram Johnson or any other man to insist that American should not be responsible for suffering, loss and wars in the world where by her effort she might eliminate them, simply evidences that he either knowingly or unwittingly ignores both ethics and logic. Senator Johnson and those who contend with him will have many willing ears, but they will be the ears of the Pharisee, they will not be those of the Samaritan.

We can pass by on the other side, but if we continue to do so, the injury done the robbed and beaten traveler by the ignoring of the bandit-infested road will reach him. We will suffer in character and purpose as well as in the deserved condemnation of mankind.

KOMICAL TELEGRAMS

By JIM ARMITAGE, Himself

Papers tell about "Senator La Follette going abroad." Europe's entitled to it—they haven't had a good laugh since the war.

President Harding went over big in Canada. He spoke about the dividing line that he been unarmed for a hundred years. Why don't he substitute a brass rail instead?

The Chronicle-Telegram team defeated the Ohio Public Service team Wednesday, even though I was out of town.

"Doc" Jackson's idea of a good time is to have the man who burglarized his home get into his dental chair.

Donahay asked Utilities Director Poor to resign. Rumor has it that Poor voted the Republican ticket.

"Vic" is doing his best to convince the public that governors should be elected for a single term.

Harding returns from Alaska. The Indians have had more than their share—he's going to give the mosquitoes a chance.

They're talking about making prospective automobile drivers stand a test before being permitted to drive. If it's a mental test, there's going to be a lot of flunkers for sale cheap.

Why do they need twelve jurors in the "Whitfield case." One could give the same verdict at less expense to the state.

Bank deposits will soon start to increase—as soon as the people return from their vacation and start saving up for next year's.

Babe Ruth struck at a ball, missed it and almost broke his neck. "Doc" Reynolds struck at one, missed it. Didn't break his neck—but almost ruined the second Commandment.

But the only thing more numerous than automobiles made in Detroit are—bass plugs.

"Doc" Austin is home—didn't leave a fish in Michigan. He enters Michigan in the "Big mosquito" contest.

Mose Wilder had another fire. Most of his merchandise goes up in smoke eventually—so why should he worry?

Doctor Betteridge is on an extended summer vacation. He's gone to gather up a lot of things to tell the boys next winter. He told some good ones last season.

"Doc" Agate's been fishing too. They tell one about his catching a record size black bass. He reeled him in hurriedly. Claude Bivin and Harry Hinkson cried, "Play him play him, let him play." "Doc" reeled faster, remarking, "If he wants to play—let him play on the bank."

Ross Baum and his good friend, "Sparkplug" Earl Peters are not attending the races this week.

WHO'S WHO IN THE DAY'S NEWS

GOV. WILLIAM E. SWEET
"The successful presidential candidate in 1924 will be the man who has a tangible, definite program for bettering the condition of the farmer."

That is the view of Gov. William E. Sweet of Colorado, known as "the farmers' governor."

Sweet had been in the bond business in Denver for many years before opening his campaign last year for election as governor and the "big business candidate" tag was hung on him by his opponents. Even his most bitter antagonists now admit that he has shown no leaning toward big business. He is even called a "radical."

The two most important achievements in Governor Sweet's term to date have been the passage of two bills aimed to help the farmer. One legalizes the organizing and functioning of co-operative marketing associations and the other provides for the establishment of a state bureau of markets and a state market director.
Sweet's candidacy was endorsed by the Colorado Federation of Labor as well as the farmers. He admits that he knows little of the technical end of farming, but acquired by a study of their problems an insight into the conditions they face.

An interesting feature of the vote for Sweet was that 25,000 ballots cast in the gubernatorial election showed a vote for Sweet and for no one else on the tickets.

40 Years Ago

THE GREAT RAILROAD strike was still on and Elyria was practically cut off from the outside world. But one passenger train each way was being run daily.

THE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY was advertising a big excursion to Niagara Falls for $6 the round trip if the strike was over in time.

WHEAT WAS BRINGING FROM $1.25 to $1.35 per bushel and the farmers were happy as they had a large crop to market.

THE VILLAGE COUNCIL PASSED the first ordinance licensing dogs, charging $1 for males and $2 for females. Officers were ordered to shoot all unlicensed dogs.

THE CROQUET GROUNDS OF J. A. TOPPIT was the scene of many a hard fought battle. Players came here from all over the state in an effort to beat the Elyria experts, J. A. Toppit, W. A. Gilbert, D. J. Peck, Lorenzo Clark, Frank Hurlbut, A. O. Griswold and others, but were unable to do so.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"HONOR MAIN ISSUE IN RUHR," SAYS SIR EDWARD GRIGG

The serious differences which have arisen between England and France on the occupation of the Ruhr which at this moment threaten to sever the Entente, and the conditions under which the British believe the problem could be effectively settled, were surveyed recently at length in an interview by Sir Edward Grigg, member of Parliament for Oldham, Lancashire, former military secretary to the Prince of Wales and for years personal secretary to Lloyd George when Prime Minister.

Sir Edward arrived in the U. S. a short time ago. He considers that the Ruhr question involves only a matter of honor between France and Germany; the former because her honor is involved in maintaining the occupation, the latter because it is a question of principle for her to maintain passive resistance.

The greatest difficulty in summing up the reparations and Ruhr problems Sir Edward declared: "The greatest difficulty in the situation, which has given rise to very widespread pessimism is that French honor is involved in the maintenance of occupation until Germany surrenders and that German honor appears to be involved equally in maintaining passive resistance until the French make some conciliatory move. This is the dead point in the situation and British energies must be directed to making wheels go round again without loss of honor to either their French or Belgian allies. The most foolish and cardinal blunder the Germans ever made was the signing of the Treaty of Rapallo at the Genoa conference. When the two 'outlaw' nations, Germany and Russia, joined hands the Germans lost any British sympathy they might ever have had."

As regards the reparations problem as a whole, he blames the French Government for making it impossible for America to maintain a representative in the Reparations Commission. The absence of an American member, he said, profoundly upset the balance of the commission. He hopes to see an American representative, official or unofficial, in the new Reparations Commission, which he hopes the Committee of International Financiers will set up.

"Great Britain has always profoundly regretted that the United States was not an active participating member of the Reparations commission, as laid down in the Treaty of Versailles. The absence of the American representative profoundly upset the balance of the commission, because the commission was left with nothing but members deeply interested in securing for themselves payments from Germany," he said.

Without prejudice "The United States would have been above the prejudices created by this special interest and was, therefore, essential to the proper working of the commission. We welcome the fact that the Committee of International Financiers appointed by the Reparations Commission last year included a distinguished American representative, and we profoundly regretted the fact that owing to the attitude of the French Government the committee never concluded its work or presented its report. We naturally hope, therefore, that there will be an American representative, whether official or unofficial, upon the new Financial Committee, which the Reparations Committee may set up, if negotiations between the French and British Governments turn out successfully."

FARM BUREAUS LAUNCH MOVE TO HOLD WHEAT

O. E. Bradfute, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, has announced plans to boost wheat prices. He estimates that $150,000,000 of the $600,000,000 available under the new intermediate credit act will be sufficient to finance the storage of 200,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat which it is planned to withdraw from the market.

POEMS THAT LIVE

O WERT THOU IN THE CAULD BLAST
O wert thou in the cauld blast,
On yonder lea, on yonder lea,
My plaidie to the angry air,
I'd shelter thee, I'd shelter thee;
Or did Misfortune's bitter storms
Around thee blow, around thee blow,
Thy shield should be my bosom,
To share it a', to share it a'.
Or were I in the wildest waste,
Sae black and bare, sae black and bare,
The desert were a Paradise.
If thou wert there, if thou wert there;
Or were I Monarch o' the globe,
Wi' thee to reign, wi' thee to reign,
The brightest jewel in my Crown
Wad be my Queen, wad be my Queen.

CUT KING'S SALARY SAYS LABOR CHIEF: MAYBE HE'LL STRIKE

David Kirkwood, laborite in the British House of Commons, is advocating a cut in pay for King George. George draws $550,000 and he might strike if it were reduced. But that doesn't seem to worry Kirkwood.

French Draft Reply; Extend Occupation; Germany Crumbling

MANNHEIM, July 27.—French troops occupied Rheinau, in Baden, today expelling the German police.

PARIS, July 27.—France's reply to the British note on the occupation of the Ruhr is being completed today. A copy was sent to Brussels yesterday. If the Belgian negotiations are concluded in time, the note will be dispatched to London tomorrow.

Recent reports from the Ruhr state that the local population is changing its attitude towards occupation. Germans in the Ruhr are said to be showing an increasing tendency to co-operate with the French.

In consequence of this changed viewpoint on the part of the Germans, the French military authorities have proposed progressive modification of occupational regulations.

The first was the lifting of the blockade.

Steps will be taken to ameliorate living conditions of the Germans also, if there is any outbreak of sabotage the old-time strictness will be re-established.

BRUSSELS, July 27.—Belgium may not reply to the British note until Premier Poincaré, it was learned this morning. It is admitted that there is a divergence of the views between Brussels and Paris.

Germany Near Collapse.

LONDON, July 27.—Although it is reported that the Franco-Belgian reply to the British note is being forwarded to London within the next three or four days, fears are held here that it will not come soon enough to prevent Germany from collapsing.

The Daily Chronicle, a personal organ of former Premier David Lloyd George, openly charges that the motive of France's delay in answering the British note is "contained in the fact that Premier Poincaré still believes that Germany is on the verge of a breakdown."

Advices from Dutch sources tell of increasing monarchist activity. "Mischief is brewing at Wieringen," said an anti-Paris dispatch to the Daily Mail. The telegram went on to detail the movements of Germans at Wieringen where the ex-crown prince has been living in exile since he fled from Germany.

Dr. Karl Heffrich, one of the chief leaders of the monarchists, and Hugo Stinnes, the great German industrial magnate, have both been visiting in Holland lately. Prince Eitel Friederich, son of the former Kaiser, visited his brother, the former crown prince, Eitel Friederich is in close touch with the royalists and is believed to have carried a message to William.

British Watchful Waiting.

A report that Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary, would go to Paris, was officially denied. British officials said they understood there was a divergence of views between the French and Belgians but that the London government would not attempt to adjust it. Great Britain will retain her present attitude of watchful waiting, pending the reply from Brussels and Paris.

17-Year-Old Clerk in Postal Sub-Station Admits Theft, Says She Lost Money Playing Slot Machines

CLEVELAND, July 27.—Daisy Saginor, 17, a clerk in a postal sub-station, was arrested at her place of work today by Postoffice Inspectors A. P. Owen, C. M. Zimmerman and S. E. Seigfried, charged with having stolen hundreds of dollars from registered letters which she is alleged to have lost playing slot machines.

The girl who is said to have confessed her alleged speculations is reported to have been a consistent player of the machines over which a statewide campaign was waged for some months. As she plunged on these machines she is said to have delved deeper and deeper into the funds of postoffice patrons and was caught, according to inspectors, when a trap was set for her.

frequently with his attorneys. He showed no signs of fatigue from the heat and the prolonged process of obtaining a jury.

Coroner Testifies.

Mrs. Griffin was on the stand only a few minutes. She testified to her marriage and said she last saw her husband alive at 5:30 a. m. on May 11, the morning of the murder. She next saw his body on May 14 in the county morgue.

Dr. P. A. Hammond, county coroner, offered testimony as to the nature of the wounds found on Griffin's body. He described the bullet wound through the neck, which, in his opinion caused death. Two other wounds on the head in his opinion were inflicted before death.

Circumstantial Evidence.

The state's case is almost wholly circumstantial, prosecutor Stanton will contend that the alleged fact that Whitfield armed himself following his arrest on a charge of theft, his subsequent flight, the circumstances upon which Griffin's body was found buried near Pettibone Road south of Cleveland on the Monday following his death, the alleged borrowing of a spade supposed to have been used to dig the grave all point unerringly to one conclusion, that Whitfield killed Griffin while the police officer was in the performance of his duty, a crime under Ohio laws punishable with death, whether or not the element of premeditation is present.

Slain in Roadster.

The defense will admit that Griffin met death in Whitfield's blue Jordan roadster as prisoner and captor rode to the police station which was never reached. They will seek to prove by Whitfield's testimony however, and by that of Peter Milan, if that person, declared "mythical" by the state in an appearance, that the death wound was inflicted by Griffin himself.

Both sides assert that the actual hearing of the case will be brief, and should their predictions prove correct it is probable that Whitfield will know his fate by Thursday of next week.

Harding Declares

and rarely to know. Those of us who think we know a great lot about newspaper making may learn some very simple fundamentals by going to Alaska. I found myself voluntarily doffing my hat to the editor and publisher who succeeds in maintaining a daily issue in a town of eight to twenty hundred people where the circulation maximum cannot exceed two to three hundred copies. I refrain from an attempted analysis of the return of the value of advertising to the publisher and the community value of the publication will remain unchallenged.

"The big asset in the successful Alaskan sheet is the home news and when the final analysis of the making of a newspaper is written here is the secret of most newspaper successes."

Praises Newspapers.

"Give me a newspaper which is a true reflex of the community it serves and I know I am reading an index to dependable public opinion as well as a potent agent in moulding that opinion."

"An honest and an intelligent press which necessitates a highly purposed press affords a limitless opportunity for community service in life. It may reach the larger congregation. It has every opportunity to commend and defend the law. It is the effective mouthpiece of our politics. It is the teacher which knows no vacation. It is the recording agent of human accomplishment whose simple story is the ever continuing inspiration to loftier achievements. Let those of us who find pride in association with the making of the American press the best press in the world resolve upon a full appraisal of our responsibilities and see that conscience is maintained."

1700 ATTEND BIG AMHERST PICNIC WED.

Tenth Annual Community Affair Is Huge Success; Many Close Contests Enjoyed

AMHERST, July 27.—A crowd estimated at 1700 attended the 10th annual Amherst Community picnic held at Crystal Beach, Vermilion, Wednesday.

The committee in charge was on the job, and a great deal of fun was had by those who entered into the spirit of the day.

One of the contests which caused a great deal of fun was the shoe contest. The shoes were mixed in a pile, while the boys were lined up several yards away. The signal was given and the boys tore down the stretch of grass, each to select his shoes and be the first back to the starting place. Some were unlucky, losing their shoes before they reached the goal.

The cracker eating contest also caused much merriment, the first one to finish eating his crackers and become able to whistle, was the first prize winner. The three-legged race came in for their share of amusement. The boys needed in pairs, a leg of one lashed to the leg of the other as they strode down the course.

Exhausted Pocketbooks.

Of course the children had a good time. It was the age-old plea, "Gimme a nickel, dad" which fathers heard and they dug into their pockets, and produced money for pop, ice cream cones, candy, the miniature railroad, as the Amherst Business Men's Association was reported by long distance telephone shortly before noon to be booked at Fort Townsend, pending investigation to determine possible damage done in the collision with a convey destroyer this morning. No lives were lost in the collision and only slight damage sustained by the Henderson, according to reports here.

Many of the Amherstites returned early; others remained during the evening for dancing. It was an ideal day for a picnic, and everyone enjoyed the hospitality of the Amherst Business Men's Association from start to finish. The game staged between two teams from Amherst, those of the south side of Park avenue playing the northsiders, resulted in a tie. Their prize was four meal tickets.

When it is sweltering hot

AND there isn't a breath of air stirring and you are nearly dead with heat, think of the comfort of going to your ice box and finding the milk, butter and meat cold and fresh!

If you do not have that pleasure, get a refrigerator now.

Don't struggle along with stale milk, melted butter and spoiled meat during the hot months of summer. By all means keep milk iced. It won't keep in your cellar; that is, it won't keep fresh; milk begins to spoil immediately when the temperature rises above 50 degrees. Fresh milk is good for children; stale milk is bad.

POSTAL SYSTEM REGAINS OLD POSE

On Self-Supporting Basis For First Time Since the War

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The American postal system is on a self-supporting basis for the first time since the war, when increased postage rates boomed postal revenues, officials of the treasury department said today. Postmaster General New, effecting far-reaching economies which in no way have been calculated to reduce efficiency, has assured the director of the budget that the postoffice department will show a surplus at the end of the present fiscal year. This will be first surplus since 1913.

The postal deficit was $32,000,000 last year and twice that the year before. The postoffice department made money during the first month of this fiscal year, although it rolled up a deficit of $12,000,000 in the same period last year.

Colonial — Showing "Yankee Doodle, Jr.," a regular sky rocketing comedy that cannot fail to please. Also a good comedy and a feature picture.

Grand—"King, Queen, Joker," is a real comedy. The scenes of comedy are laid in a mythical kingdom and Sydney Chaplin plays a dual role, that of a king and of a barber. The plot is good and the situation thrilling. It is a picture worth seeing.

Dreamland—William Russell in "Good Bye, Girls." In a brass bound box a lovely girl kept the secret of her invention, an invisible deep sea light which was sought by all governments. The agents of these wanted the secret so badly that armed men threatened her life at every turn. Both she and the secret would have been surely lost but for the aid of a brilliant author, who had gone to the country for a rest. He finally told her that what she needed most was a husband, and he was the man to fill that need.

News Notes From Movieland

In her new picture soon to be released, "The Street Singer," "Our Mary" has a grown-up part and her curls are demurely tucked up. Are we going to receive this grown-up young lady and love her as we have "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" or "Amarilly" or "Little Lord Fauntleroy"? Do we love her for herself or for her curls? Ah that is the question. On it depends the success of this new play. It is one of the few grown-up parts that Mary has essayed and there is no doubt at all about her ability to act like a grown-up or to look lovely in the part, but—will the public be content with a "Rosita" instead of a "Rebecca"? Time alone can tell.

STEEL CORPORATION STARTS PLANS FOR 8-HOUR WORK DAY

NEW YORK, July 27.—The United States Steel Corporation today took its first definite step to establish the universal eight-hour day within its industries, in accordance with a pledge made to President Harding.

Elbert H. Gary, board chairman and spokesman for the entire steel industry, sat in conference with residents of the corporation's subsidiary companies, for the purpose of working out a plan by which the steel men's promise could be met with the least possible loss of both money and production.

The conference was behind closed doors, and it will be many months before the final program will be announced, subsidiary residents, arriving for the meeting, said.

A number of problems are to be worked out, along the line already agreed upon by the steel men, it was said.

Cuts Pay Envelope.
The many problems, incident with the establishing of the eight-hour day, are to be divided between the mills of the subsidiary companies, observed and later introduced as the general plan of the United States Steel Corporation if found practical.

The problems to be worked out at the conference, it was learned at Judge Gary's office, were:

- 1.—Wages.
- 2.—Labor supply.
- 3.—The introduction of labor saving machinery.

Grave fear was expressed by those attending the conference that the workers would react to the reduction of wage which the eight-hour day will bring.

At present, it was pointed out, unskilled labor in the steel mills earns $4.50 a day on the 12-hour basis. With an eight-hour day this wage would be cut to $3.20.

How to overcome this problem was admitted the chief concern of the conference, and it was freely admitted that should labor prove unwilling to accept this wage on an eight hour basis, the universal eight-hour day would only be a matter of months.

Start at Youngstown.
It was expected the reaction to the wage problem would be put under observation among the employees of the open hearth department of the Republic Iron and Steel Company and at the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, subsidiary companies, where the eight-hour day has been put into force.

The problem of labor, it was expected, would be delegated to the National Tube Company, and the American Sheet and Tinplate Company, of Pittsburgh.

If the 250,000 steel company employees were put on an universal eight-hour day next week, it was stated by those attending the conference, the corporation would be forced to employ 30,000 additional men within a week to keep its plants in operation and add twenty thousand more within two months.

STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 27.—Weakness in the shares of northwestern railroads and of oil companies featured the forenoon trading on the stock exchange today. Pacific and Great Northern Preferred were down two points to below 50 and 57, respectively. Other rails held steady.

The sentiment in the oil group, comprising practically all dividend paying issues, was based on the belief that many companies, facing the necessity of carrying large inventories will be forced to do new financing or cut their dividends or both.

Marland Oil yielded about one point to 35. Pan American Petroleum 1-4 to 61, Royal Dutch 1-4 to 44, Sinclair 1-2 to 23, and Standard Oil of California 1-4 to 48 1-4.

Steel stocks were fractionally higher. Trading in the rest of the list was dull but steady.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The stock market opened irregular today. Fractional declines and advances were about evenly divided, with the exception of Mac Truck which yielded 1-8 to 74 1-2. Bethlehem Steel, on the declaration of the regular dividend, opened strong, advancing 7-8 to 49 1-8. U. S. Steel rose 3-8 to 99 7-8 while Republic lost 3-8 to 44, Vanadium 1-8 to 28 1-8 and Baldwin 1-4 to 119 3-4. Studebaker lost 1-4 to 104 3-8 and Willys-Overland 1-8 to 7 1-4.

Oil stocks opened irregular.

TO ALL AUTOMOBILE OWNERS:

Last year there were between 13,000 and 14,000 deaths due to automobile accidents in the United States. There were 1.2 persons killed for each 1,000 automobiles registered. There were at least ten times as many badly injured!

Do you realize that when you drive an automobile you take on a grave responsibility from which you should be protected?

If you injure a child, you cannot say the child was to blame. If you do, a jury will probably disagree with you.

Public Liability Insurance gives you protection from all claims due to the injury of other people, up to $5,000 for one person hurt and $10,000 for two or more people hurt in any one accident. It also pays all legal costs.

This protection will cost you only $23.00 to $33.00 a year.

Property Damage Insurance protects you up to $1,000 for damage to the property of others, be it his auto, a store front, or as small a thing as a dog.

The cost is only $8.00 to $12.00 a year.

These two, Public Liability and Property Damage Insurance protect you and your home from the result of law suits, and relieve you of all worry connected with them.

Isn't that worth $31.00 to $45.00 a year to you?

DINNER STORIES

In a small village in Ireland, the mother of a soldier met the village priest, who asked her if she had any bad news.

"Sure I have," she said. "Pat has been killed."

"Oh, I am sorry," said the priest. "Did you receive the news from the war office?"

"No," she said. "I received word from himself."

The priest looked perplexed, and said, "But how is that?"

"Sure," she said, "here's the letter, read it yourself."

The letter said: "Dear Mother—I am now in the Holy Land."—Eison (Buffalo U.).

The small boy came careening down the street at a terrific speed, shouting, "Pittsburgh, Chronicle-Telegram. He bumped into old woman, trod on all the dogs that got in his way, upset a tray of muffins in front of a bakery, and finally collided with Mr. Smith on his way to town."

"Don't stop me!" yelled the boy as Smith seized his arm.

"I'm trying to keep two fellows from fighting!" gasped the small boy.

"What two fellows?"

"Johnny Mason and me."

Troopers were first issued to British infantry just a century ago, before that soldiers wore breeches.

MARCHING WITH THE LEGION

A burning airplane was responsible for the loss of a leg and severe injuries to John Henry Gose of Washington during the World War. When he returned to civil life, Gose, who is a member of the American Legion's national committee on aeronautics, with aviator comrades, who had received similar injuries, invented a device to eliminate for others the dangers that caused their own injuries.

The invention is a fireproof gasoline tank containing a fire-resistant chemical that extinguishes any flame that may start from a leak in the gasoline tank system. And is released from a flask installed over the engine of the plane when a certain temperature has been reached.

It was while Gose was in the flying corps that he suffered the accident. Flying at an altitude of between 500 and 600 feet, a sheet of flame shot from under peath the front gasoline tank of his plane. Lieutenant Gose, attempting to put out the fire and at the same time to make a landing, put the machine into a sidslip. The plane crashed on one wing and the pilot was pinned in the burning wreckage. Struggling to get free from the blazing plane, he broke both legs. Eventually, comrades, risking their lives, succeeded in pulling the lieutenant from the plane. What was left of his right leg had to be amputated. Lieutenant Gose was an organizer of the Legion post at Bristol, Va. He was appointed to the national committee on aeronautics by National Commander Alvin Owsley.

A peasant depicting the early history of Minnesota, from the days of the Indians and early French pioneers to the World War, was held recently at Montevideo, Minn., by the Lee Osborn post of the American Legion. One hundred persons were required to portray the various scenes and much of the stage "property" was obtained from collections of historic relics in that community.

Because promoters and schemers have plotted to separate Illinois former soldiers from their bonus money, the service recognition board has refused all requests for lists of names of the approved claimants. American Legion posts of the state also are opposing the efforts of salesmen to obtain lists of members. The board has been bombarded for some time by these demands, which have come from automobile salesmen, stock and bond houses and other commercial interests.

MAKE NON-STOP CHICAGO-N. Y. FLIGHT

Trip Which Took 8 1-2 Hours Expected to Be Made in Six Hours; Passengers Slept on Journey

GARDEN CITY, L. I., July 27.—While his passengers peacefully slept, Capt. Eugene Stinson, Dayton, Ohio, man completed the first non-stop night flight between Chicago and New York, alighting at Curtis field here at 8:30 o'clock eastern daylight time last night.

Charles Dickinson, president of Aero Club of Illinois and Art Grey, mechanic, accompanied Stinson in the flight.

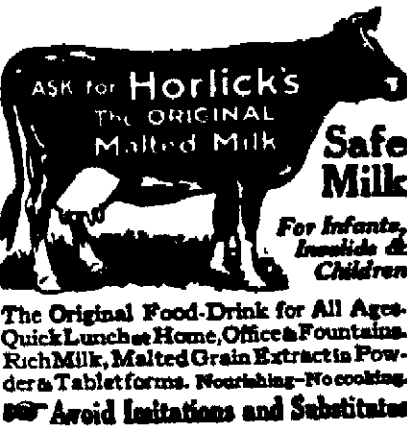

His plane, a junker monoplane, equipped with a 180 horsepower motor, has accommodations for seven people.

"The eight hours and a half we spent in the air was without incident," said Stinson on alighting here. "We took out from Chicago with a full moon in our favor. At 10 o'clock this morning, just as we were passing over Cleveland, the moon went behind the clouds and did not come out again. We flew the rest of the way in pitch darkness."

"After the moon went in and there was nothing to see, I just sat back in the plane and went to sleep—never was disturbed all the way along," Dickinson said. Grey said he also slept most of the way. "We made the trip as experiment," Stinson explained. "We did not try for speed and I believe that the flight can be made in about six hours with ease."

I will try for speed later," Stinson said.

"The Chicago man has been brought to Broadway by our flight," Dickinson said. "After taking in the opening of a new show and enjoying an after-theatre supper, the

ROMANCE OF RICH OKLAHOMA INDIAN GIRL ENDS IN WHITE MAN'S DIVORCE COURT

Mrs. Berlin Jackson, nee Exie Fife, at the wheel of one of her three "Packards."

"Too Much Money!" Old timers in McIntosh county, Oklahoma, are nodding their heads knowingly and ascribing that as the reason for the divorce court ending of the romance of the former Exie Fife, Oklahoma's wealthiest Indian girl, and Berlin Jackson, her childhood sweetheart, whom she wedded after oil discoveries on her farm had made her wealthy.

Chicagoan can now hop off from New York and be back in his place of business in the morning in plenty of time to look over the first delivery of mail.

Stinson and his passengers will remain here until tomorrow when they will attempt a return nonstop flight by daylight.

PREACHER GIVES BRIDE "PATERNAL" KISS; NAVY OFFICER GIVES HIM BAD BEATING

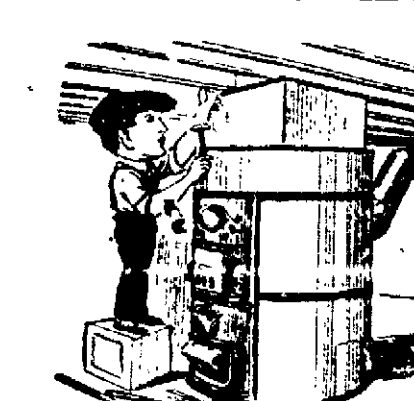

Lieut. Wesley McLaren Hague and Mrs. Hague.

BOSTON, July 27.—Since the "way back when" days that featured Adam and Eve and the serpent in their little skit in the Garden of Eden, triangles have come and gone with varying results to husbands, wives and third parties. The latest sensation has been staged here. It was in three acts: I, the Paternal Kiss. II, The Threshing. III, The Resignation. Time: The present. Characters were: Angle No. 1—Lieut. Wesley M. Hague, U. S. N. Angle No. 2—Mrs. Wesley M. Hague, bride of eight weeks. Angle No. 3—The Rev. G. L. Paine, author of the "paternal" kiss and assistant pastor of fashionable Christ church. In the opening scene of the drama Lieutenant Hague bids his bride of eight weeks a fond adieu when duty calls him to Baltimore. The Rev. Paine calls to console her in her loneliness. An auto ride. Then a "paternal" kiss—not on the fair brow but on the fairer lips. The husband returns. Mrs. Hague informs him of the pastor's generosity in giving her the "paternal" smack. But Lieutenant Hague fails to see where the "paternal" part of it comes in. Here the scene shifts to the office of Paine, at that time secretary of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches. Paine at his desk Hague standing before him. Then action, plenty of it. Flying fists and more flying fists. Paine is badly battered. The final act finds Paine before a meeting of the board of directors of the federation. His resignation has been accepted. Paine denies that his resignation indicates that he believed he did wrong, but says he took that action lest the federation be embarrassed. Beatrice and Earl accompanied her back home. John Bock attended the Evangelical convention at Linwood on Sunday. Mrs. C. H. Hunger on Wednesday attended a picnic at Lakewood park. Mr. and Mrs. Mental of Grafton and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nichols of LaGrange were guests on Sunday of Mrs. Fred Vietzen. Wm. Wagner and family spent Sunday at Wurdt Cottage on the Lake Shore. AMERICA'S GREATEST NEED IS DISCUSSED BY BABSON

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., July 27.—Roger W. Babson was today asked why it is that he is so optimistic on the general business situation when so many of the barometers of business indicate great prosperity. The optimistic forecasts of prominent bankers, manufacturers, and financial advisors were called to Mr. Babson's attention and he was frankly asked why a warning was needed under present stable conditions. His reply was as follows:

"It is true that a number of the barometers of business are distinctly favorable at the present time. In order to be absolutely fair to everyone I even took pains to enumerate these in a published statement only a month ago. The merchants are not over stocked, manufacturers have not been speculating in raw materials, banks are good resources, check transactions are normal, railroad earnings are exceptionally good, and our great industries are apparently on a sound basis. My critics are correct in their statement that such indications point to a wonderful business this fall, and perhaps two or three years of rising prices. I realize these rising figures as well as anyone and it is very hard for him to sound a warning while so many are so optimistic and so contented

"My reason for sounding a warning is two-fold. First, the Babsonchart of business conditions shows clearly that the period of readjustment is only about 60 per cent completed, and that further readjustment is inevitable. Second, that the attitude of the younger generation is distinctly harmful to the present situation. That is to say, my warning is based both on statistics and on a study of the spiritual forces underlying business. Of course, in reality, the spiritual or moral forces are by far the more important as they really determine what statistics and the chart will later show. The attitude of the people bears the same relation to the Babsonchart and to statistics that the temperature bears to the thermometer, or as far-loadings bear to railroad earnings.

"I have offices in twenty-six large cities and correspondents in two hundred other cities. In every locality I find that the average man today is interested only in spending. People not only want to get rich quick but without working. People are buying recklessly without any thought about where the money is coming from with which to pay. Our young people seem to have the idea that dollar bills grow on trees and all they have to do is to pick them off. Almost no one wants to work. Very few want to produce. Earnest and industrious manual laborers, such as we had twenty-five years ago, are almost unknown quantities. Everyone wants to ride in the car and no one wants to pull. Our percentage of producers is steadily decreasing and the percentage of middlemen is steadily increasing.

"Such conditions cannot continue forever. A dog may live on his tail for awhile, but it cannot continue this process indefinitely. People may for a while get a living doing one another's washing, but after the clothes are worn out there will be no washing to do. A certain number of people can exist as middlemen. Middlemen are a necessity and serve a valuable economic function, but America's great need is producers, especially men and women filled with the desire to produce and with the joy of production. America's great need is a revival of the joy of work. America's great need is a revival of the desire to serve. America's great need is a revival of the habit of saving.

"I am not fearful for America in the long run, but rather I am a great optimist on this country and the people of this country. My love of America causes me to issue the warning that the attitude of the average young person today is not right toward his or her work. A doctor is not friendly to his patient if he blindly shuts his eyes to his patient's disease. One cannot be a true friend of the United States by blindly shutting his eyes to the wrong attitude of the new generation toward industry, service and thrift. It is this wrong attitude which has already caused business, as indicated by the Babsonchart, to decline. The chart today stands at 3 per cent below normal compared with 1 per cent below normal at the beginning of the year."
